

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information signal processing apparatus connected to a connection control network, has event 5 reception means for receiving a predetermined event instruction irrespective of the type of high level protocol, and when the event reception means receives an event instruction, an event corresponding to the received instruction is generated.